

Dennis Winter becomes Chief Technology Officer of Boerse Stuttgart Digital

Stuttgart, June 17, 2024 - Dennis Winter (45) will join Boerse Stuttgart Digital as Chief Technology Officer (CTO) and Managing Director on June 17, 2024. He will be responsible for Software Development, IT Operations, and IT Security. With his new team of 70 talented international individuals in Stuttgart, Berlin, and Ljubljana, he will strengthen the position of Boerse Stuttgart Digital as the regulated and reliable infrastructure partner for European financial institutions.

Dennis Winter joins us from the international fintech bank Solaris, where he has worked since 2016 and most recently served as CTO, responsible for developing robust processes and securing the technical infrastructure. Before his time at Solaris, Dennis Winter worked at Neofonie GmbH, among other companies.

"Boerse Stuttgart Digital combines technical innovation with regulatory reliability, drawing on over 160 years of Boerse Stuttgart Group's experience in capital markets. The integrated solutions for Brokerage, Exchange, and Custody are tailored precisely to meet the needs of institutional players in the European crypto market. I look forward to further strengthening and expanding our market position with my dedicated team," said Dennis Winter.

"At Boerse Stuttgart Digital, we are a leader in technology for institutional crypto business in Europe. Therefore, we are very pleased to welcome Dennis Winter, a recognized technology expert with strong leadership qualities and extensive experience in the financial industry, to our team. His expertise in innovative and secure development methods, as well as regulatory compliance, will significantly contribute to our success," said Dr. Matthias Voelkel, CEO of the Boerse Stuttgart Group.
